

The Flag of Morocco

The flag of Morocco has a red background and a black-outlined green star in the center. A six-pointed star was on the flag until 1915, when the king changed it to a five-pointed star. It was officially adopted as the flag on November 17, 1915.

The color red is symbolic of the royal family's descent from the prophet Mohammed. The five pointed green star in the center of the flag is known as Sulayman's {Solomon's} seal and represents the link between God and the nation. Islam is the official religion in Morocco.